

Written by Ken Lancaster & Illustrated by Michael Roy

Susie's Shed is a book written to engage with younger generations and help debunk the myth that girls don't build.

Construction is an amazing career choice for EVERYONE who enjoys working with their hands. The industry plays a vital role in the growth of our communities, and last but not least (attention parents!), careers in construction provide well-above average incomes, free of student loans! This book, written by Ken Lancaster and illustrated by Michael Roy, was brought to you by WiMC, an initiative of the Mechanical Contractors Association of Canada (MCAC) and all our provincial associations.

To order a copy of Susie's Shed or to follow her on adventures, visit www.susiebuilds.ca or capture the QR code.

"One of the main messages that we wanted to share with 'Susie's Shed,' and with future projects, is that girls can do anything they set their minds to."

- Judy-Lynn Mason, Chair
Women in Mechanical Contracting

To the parents, teachers, career counselors, and other influencers considering this book, know that the construction industry is a dynamic and multifaceted field that needs both our girls and boys—along with anyone passionate about shaping a brighter future for us all.

Together, we can break down barriers and create a more inclusive and welcoming industry for everyone.

